Dylan Krol, 5, helps to make Easter baskets as he puts an alphabet writing tablet in a bag in the preschool room at the Lindenhurst Early Childhood Center. Easter baskets were made for kids in hospitals, residential and foster care in northern Illinois.

Area kids learn to give at Easter

By JOSEPH MULLER

jmuller@nwnewsgr.com

LINDENHURST – Adults weren't the only ones in Lindenhurst getting into the charitable spirit of Easter. About 200 children from the Lindenhurst Early Childhood Center (LECC) recently made about 500 Easter baskets for needy children and families throughout Lake County.

The baskets are a part of the "One for all Coalition" – a charity put together by the Open Arms Mission and the 100 Percent Foundation.

LECC teacher Toni Levy said the children loved putting the baskets together.

"They were crying the day before about having to stop making the baskets," Levy said. "They wanted to make more."

The children crafted the baskets from candy, toys, beanie babies, and stuffed animals – all of which are donated from local companies and the parents of LECC children. The parents also help deliver the baskets before Easter. Kindergartner April Graham said putting the baskets together was really fun.

"I like putting the stuffed animals in," she said.

Levy described preschooler Olivia Clower as a basket making machine.

"The Frisbees were my favorite thing to put in," Clower said.

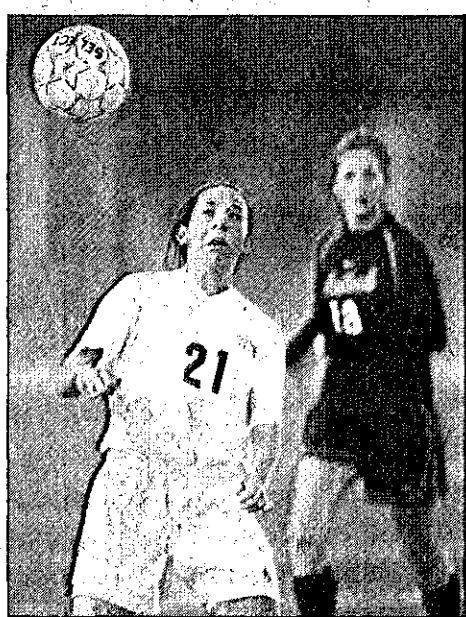

LECC Executive Director Frank Davis said the idea for the "One for all Coalition" started from conversations among 2003 Forefronts participants.

Forefronts – an annual section of the Lake County Journals highlighting individuals for their public service – has an awards breakfast in honor of the participants every year.

Scott Keenan, director of Open Arms Mission; Ricky Bueno, founder and director of Front Line Street Interventions; and Davis formed a close bond during the breakfast.

Recognizing those who put this all together

So often, we forget to tell the people in our lives how well they're doing. This week, I would like to thank my staff and others for their dedication and hard work.

Our series on the Zacharias Sexual Abuse Center comes to an end this week with a report. Reporter Yadira Sanchez Olson did an excellent job capturing all of the people, and hard work that goes into the center. You can write to Yadira to let her know what you thought of the series at ysanchez@nwnewsgroup.com previews were held this week because of that horrid snowstorm on Friday and students leaving for spring break, but the previews will be in next week's paper. Jessica Jacobsen has been doing a great job with gathering the previews. If you have a sports story idea, contact Jessica at jjacobsen@nwnewsgroup.com.

While on the subject of said snowstorm, reporter Dani Schweigert was out in the mess talking to people dealing with the elements so that we could have something up on our Web site that day. She quickly turned the story around and we had it on our Web site, Lake CountyJournals.com, by noon that day.

Nice job, Dani.

And then there's Lake County Journals photographer Amanda Schwengel, who had some great artwork in this week's issue. If you ever have an event that you think would make a good photograph, please don't hesitate to contact me at jgrace@nwnewsgroup.com.

Last of all, I'd also like to congratulate Mick Santullano. He's not on my staff, but is a good guy anyway.

I did a story on his book being accepted by the Lake Villa library last week, and he called this week to tell me that his book was accepted by the Fox Lake library, as well. Way to go, Mick.

Projects plans to deliver more than 2,000 baskets

• HELPERS

"The three of us have stayed in touch ever since," Davis said.

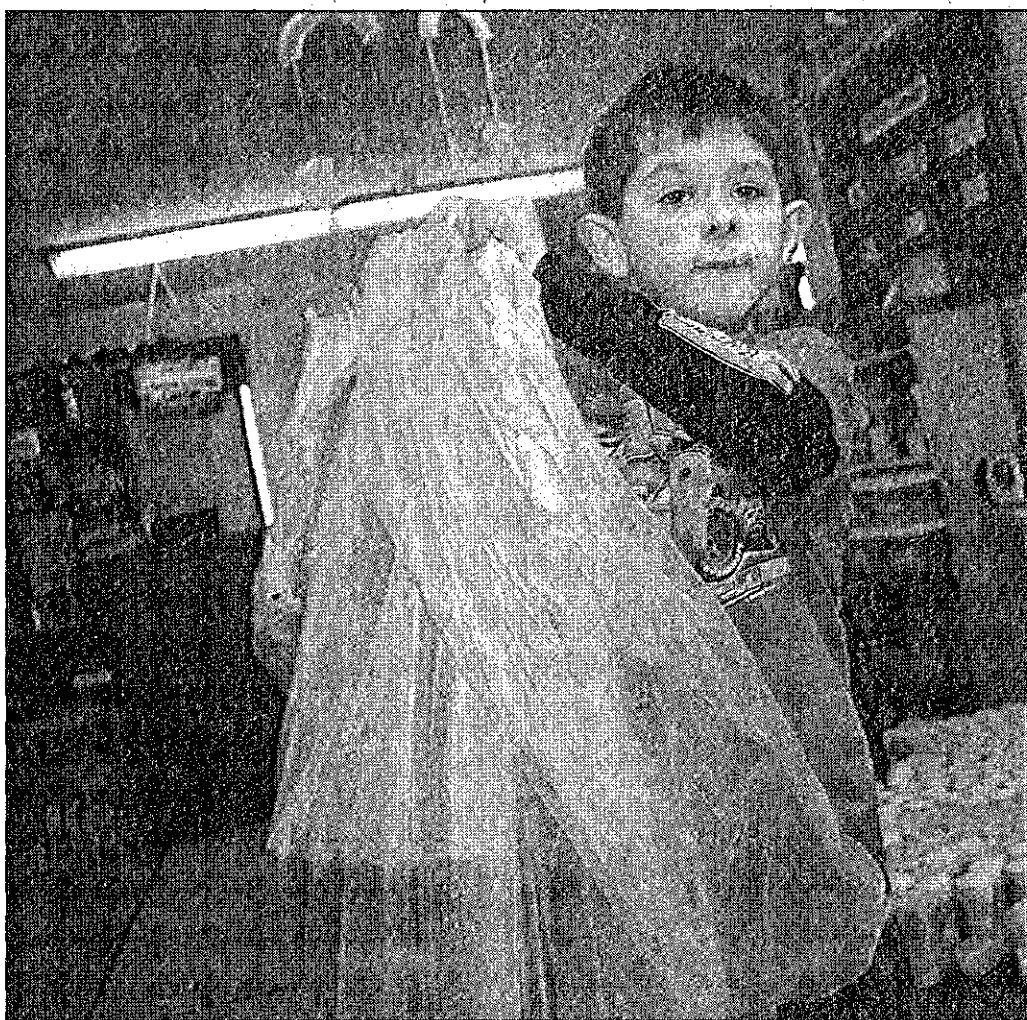

During their first year of the Easter Basket Project, Keenan, Bueno, and Davis delivered about 300 baskets.

This year, they plan to deliver more than 2,000 baskets to organizations in northern Illinois - DCF's Foster Care Division, Lake Villa Food Pantry, Avon Township, Stroger County Hospital, Kid's Hope United, Core Center for children with AIDS, and Lutheran General Hospital are among many other organizations receiving baskets. A wide range of people - ranging from parents, Lake High School students, local pageant queens and the Lindenhurst Early Childhood Center children - put the baskets together.

"It seems to get bigger every year," Levy said.

Davis believes events like this one are an important learning experience for children.

"We are teaching the children to give to others," he said, "rather than only receiving."

Dylan Richter, 5, carries an Easter basket full of goodies in a bag in the kindergarten room at the Lindenhurst Early Childhood Center.

&gt;&gt; Assessments

On pages 9-10A of this issue of the Antioch Journal, you'll find a list of changes in real property assessments in Antioch Township. The 2007 Lake County Board of Review authorized these changes. These values are subject to adjustment by the State of Illinois Department of Revenue equalization factor.

A token of appreciation

Antioch Post Office, Ladies Auxiliary receive mission flags

By JESSICA JACOBSEN
jjacobsen@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH - Philip Hettich of Cary showed a lot appreciation to some organizations in the Antioch area.

Hettich, who is a chief warrant officer with the U.S. Army, presented mission flags to the Antioch Post Office and Jeanne Oravetz, who is with the Sequoits Ladies Auxiliary, for their help in sending care packages to troops in Iraq.

Hettich's troop is one that has received those care packages.

The flags were presented March 20

at the Antioch Post Office.

Hettich was able to personally present the flags because he is on vacation.

In addition to presenting the flags on his vacation, Hettich has other plans to do while he is in the United States.

"We're going to Disney World," Hettich and his wife, Jodi, said.

The couple will go there with their two children.

Larry Darling, a clerk with the post office, accepted the flag.

"It is truly an honor," Darling said after receiving the flag.

Oravetz was at the post office to see Darling accept the mission flag, but was surprised she was receiving one as well.

"I didn't even know I was getting a mission flag until I got here," she said. "It is a great honor."

Hettich said he presented the flags as "just a small token of showing appreciation."

He added that it's nice to know people back home care.

Hettich will be done with his mission in about eight months.

"Believe me I count it down more than he does," Jodi said.

But Antioch Parks and Recreation wants you to do just that.

To pick up an application, visit the parks office at 806 Holbeck Drive or Antioch Village Hall.

It might be hard to think about summer weather now, but maybe this will get rid of those winter weather blues.

School gets a taste of 'Grease' lightning

St. Peter School to perform musical

By JESSICA JACOBSEN
jjacobsen@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH – Students at St. Peter School in Antioch will put on their dancing shoes and sing their hearts out. The school will present the musical "Grease" at 7 p.m. April 4 and at 1 and 7 p.m. April 5.

Bridget O'Connell is part of what she calls the directing team, which includes Helen Konopka, Mike Shephard, and Staci Bullock.

O'Connell said this is the third musical the school will perform. The other two were "The Wizard of Oz" and "Oliver."

O'Connell said the school, which consists of kindergarten through eighth-grade students, had wanted to present "Grease" for a while but had n't because of the language and situations. That is until school officials found out there is a school-aged "Grease" musical.

"Once we learned that actually existed, it was a no brainer," O'Connell said.

About 75 students will perform in the musical. Besides enjoying their performance, O'Connell said, she hopes the students develop an appreciation for the arts.

"We're all advocates for the arts,"

O'Connell said about the people involved with the musical.

She also sees this play as an opportunity for students to express themselves.

"Kids with a type of shyer personality really come out ... for us the excitement really comes from that," O'Connell said.

With the performance about a week away, there is still some work to be done, but the volunteer efforts from parents have made it easier,

O'Connell said. Parents have helped with dancing, hair, costumes and much more, she said. But when it's all said and done, O'Connell had one important thing to add.

"We'd love for everyone to come out and see the show," she said.

Tickets may be bought at St. Peter School, 900 St. Peter St. in Antioch. Tickets cost $5 if bought in advance or general admission tickets can be bought for $2 for kids 12 and younger or for $3 for anyone older than 12.

Robotic Prostate Surgery Provides Fast Recovery

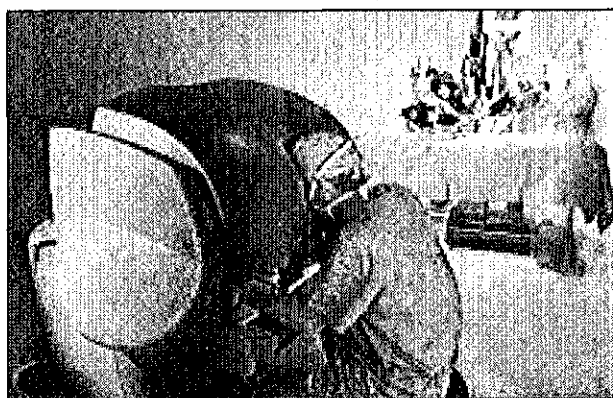

Matthew W. Johnson, MD
Urologist
Aurora St. Luke's
Medical Center

Choosing a treatment option for prostate cancer is a very personal decision. When removing the prostate gland is the best option, there is a minimally-invasive procedure that can provide a faster recovery while preserving sexual function.

Aurora St. Luke's Medical Center was the first facility in Wisconsin to offer the da Vinci® Robotic Prostatectomy.

This minimally-invasive surgical procedure replaces the larger incision and some of the risks of a traditional radical prostatectomy.

The state-of-the-art robotic system enables the surgeon to see vital anatomical structures more clearly and to perform a more precise surgical procedure. Recent studies suggest that the procedure may improve early return of continence and sexual function. Cancer control is equivalent.

The da Vinci system is a state-of-the-art robotic system that offers improved outcomes for patients needing a prostatectomy for prostate cancer.

The da Vinci system requires only a few small incisions in the abdomen through which micro instruments are inserted to access the prostate area. The surgeon's hands remain outside the patient's body. But the system translates the surgeon's hand movements into precise positioning and use of the surgical instruments within the surgical site. The operation achieves all the objectives of traditional surgery with less trauma to each patient. This translates into shorter recovery time and less pain.

The da Vinci system has been used for thousands of prostate procedures throughout the world. Matthew W. Johnson, MD, Peter F. Leonovics, III, MD and Jeffrey A. Derus, MD perform robotic prostatectomies at Aurora St. Luke's. They are the most experienced surgeons in Wisconsin who do this operation.

"The recovery is shorter and it doesn't compromise cancer control," Dr. Johnson notes.

Potential benefits over open surgery include:

- Less pain
- Less scarring
- Shorter hospital stay
- Less blood loss and fewer transfusions
- Less risk of infection
- Quicker return to normal activities
- Faster recovery

Experienced Hands

Having performed over 500 procedures, more than twice as many urological procedures as any other provider, Aurora St. Luke's is Wisconsin's most experienced leader in robotic-assisted surgery.

Almost all men under 70 years of age with localized cancer who are considering a radical prostatectomy are candidates for robotic surgery. Open surgery is still a good option for many patients, according to Dr. Johnson, including those with a larger prostate, who are very overweight or have had previous pelvic surgery.

"Early evidence from large studies shows that sexual function may be improved with robotic surgery over open surgery," Dr. Johnson says. "You can see and save the nerves better. Robotic surgery provides superior instrumentation. With a millimeter separating cancer and nerves, the magnified view of robotic surgery makes a millimeter look like a centimeter. Getting into that space is much easier with da Vinci."

Soldier attends Easter service over Internet

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

ANTIOCH - A day that otherwise would have found Tom Kirk of Antioch alone and missing his family turned into a blessing for all thanks to the Internet.

Kirk, a former Mundelein police officer, is serving in Iraq as a civilian assigned to train Iraq police. In the nine months that Kirk has been there, he seen his wife and two children just twice.

But Kirk got a chance to see his family via a laptop computer and a Web cam as he "attended" an Easter Sunday service at the Community Church of the Holy Spirit in Antioch.

"It was a blessing to see everyone," Kirk said. "It was just like being there and made the day really special for me."

His wife, Tanya, and children, along with the church family, were able to hear and see Kirk as he joined in singing and offering up prayers for his family.

"I talk to him all the time, but seeing him today made it real," Tanya said. "It meant everything to me."

Kirk's daughter, Torriea, 8, also was thrilled.

"It was the best Easter ever, seeing daddy on the computer," she said.

Trey, Kirk's 6-year-old son, told his mom the best part was getting to wave to his dad, blow him a kiss and hear him singing. For Kirk's church family, having him with them through the Internet was a blessing.

"Seeing Tom's smile, hearing his voice and then his offering of prayer for us and his family during our Prayers of the People was very powerful," said the Rev. Scott Keenann. "We were led to try something new and it worked out so well that Tom and perhaps other he's stationed with will be with us for services every Sunday from now on. We also have the technology to set this up as a Web conference so we'd like to invite other families in the community to join us along with whomever they have who is serving overseas."

Taking life to the next level

Life coaches can offer clients new perspective on matters

WILDWOOD - For 15 years, Ron Oesterlein was involved in the travel industry. But eight years ago, Oesterlein realized there was another industry he wanted to be a part of - life coaching.

Oesterlein, of Wildwood, then became a member of the International Coach Federation's Chicago Chapter and soon became a program co-chair for the chapter.

He later was named as president-elect and is now president.

"If you want to take your life to the next level, in whatever area, one great way to do that is a coach," he said.

Oesterlein said he has a "diverse clientele" and helps people with losing weight, maintaining significant relationships and dealing with transitions such as divorce or a new job.

The cost of the service, he said, is $400 a month on average.

Although a lot of the interaction takes place by phone and e-mail, Oesterlein said, he likes to take his clients on outdoor sporting trips because "there are similarities between athletics and life."

He added that a life coach is a great asset because he or she is objective and can reflect blind spots people might not realize they have.

The next meeting for the International Coach Federation's Chicago Chapter begins at 4 p.m. April 14 at the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons, 6300 N. River Road in Rosemont.

Oesterlein also owns and manages his own real estate company, called Center Avenue Partners, but he became a life coach because he wanted to help others.

"When someone is getting clarity on what they want and getting to what they want, it's great," he said. "Being part of that process and helping is very rewarding."

One of Oesterlein's clients is Chris Tomes of Chicago.

Tomes, 30, is a financial consultant and said he met Oesterlein in 2001 when Oesterlein was a client of his.

In 2002, Tomes hired Oesterlein as a life coach to achieve more balance in his life.

"In today's fast-paced world and society, it's important to have someone on the outside who can give you an impartial view," Tomes said.

Healthy initiative comes to Lake County YMCA

VERNON HILLS - A new county-wide initiative called "Healthy Lake County" is being introduced at a press conference at 1 p.m. Monday, March 31, at the Central Lake YMCA, 700 Lakeview Parkway in Vernon Hills.

Illinois Senators and Representatives, key Lake County government officials, and hospital and community leaders will be present as this initiative is outlined for the community.

One of the most important health issues in the country today is America's epidemic of obesity, inactivity, and poor nutritional diets. Dave Hayward, President and CEO of the Lake County Family YMCA, along with State Representative Kathy Ryg (D-Vernon Hills) recognize the need for the community to come together in a bid to address this growing health crisis.

Healthy Lake County will focus on providing resources and services to assist all residents in improving their health, well being, and overall quality of life.

Please contact Dave Hayward at dhayward@ymcalakecounty.org or 847-996-6959 for more information.

'There is a lot of hope'

Zacharias advocates don't let work bring them down

By YADIRA SANCHEZ OLSON
ysanchez@nwnewsgroup.com

GURNEE - Patience, compassion, and the ability to inspire trust are just some of the characteristics that the counselors and volunteers at Zacharias Sexual Abuse Center possess.

These are qualities that help them do the heroic mission of healing the wounded and giving voice to their pain.

But when the workday is over, what is it that gets these people through the night? What helps them cope after repeatedly being exposed to the many stories of sexual abuse that they encounter in their job?

"I love my work," said Lori Viera, bilingual counselor at the Zacharias Sexual Abuse Center.

Viera said that social work has always been her passion and that she found her true calling when she was hired last year.

"When I walked in for the first time I knew that this is where I wanted to be," Viera said. "You find yourself slowing down your breath and thinking that there is healing in this place."

What Viera says helps her cope with all the sad things that she hears from her clients is her faith.

"I have a one hour commute to and from work; that is my downtime to pray," Viera said.

Children's counselor Adam Robinson uses other methods to keep doing the work that he does at the center.

He says that he sees disgusting and sad things every day, but what he focuses on is what keeps him going.

"I see that there is a lot of hope. With children, we have more time to help them heal," Robinson said. "It is really helpful to know of the incredible resiliency of the children."

Robinson said that in order to not take it home

Series overview

For five weeks, the Lake County Journals examined the Zacharias Sexual Abuse Center and the services it provides. Below is a look at the series in its entirety.

Feb. 28: Name change and background of the center.

March 6: How the center works with the community - The center's links with schools, hospitals and police.

March 13: A look at survivors of sexual abuse - When the system works and when it fails.

March 20: The center's children's program - Youth Allies C.A.R.E.

March 27: The people who are a part of the healing - The staff, volunteers and financial supporters of the center.

The Zacharias Sexual Abuse Center is at 4275 Old Grand Ave., Gurnee, IL 6003. Their 24-Hour hotline is 847-872-7799.

For information call 847-244-1187 or visit their Web site at www.ZachariasCenter.org.

with him, he does activities that help him feel good such as going on runs and spending time with friends.

Another counselor who focuses on the healing and not the pain is Tammy Hicks.

She is the crisis intervention advocate-medical for the center.

She says that one thing she has learned is that rape crosses all boundaries.

Learn more

If you would like to learn more about the center and the work it does, you can visit with the staff on Saturday, April 5.

The Zacharias Sexual Abuse Center is having an open house from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. organized by the Youth Allies C.A.R.E. group.

They will show off the sign with their new name and giving tours of the center.

The theme for the open house is "From Here to Healing."

"Every day is a different scenario, but I see what our services do," Hicks said. "To see people overcome that experience and see a transformation in them is what keeps me going."

Everyone at the center is aware that the doors are always open to each other and that this is an invaluable aid at the center.

"I never worked at a job where it felt like a privilege to be here," said Wendy Ivy, director of advocacy and volunteer services. "They [board of directors] take seriously the work that we do."

That's why ideas such as regular staff meetings to help process the information and short work days every Friday have been implemented.

Also implemented are perks such as a volunteers coming in to give chair massages to the staff once a month and flexible hours for moms.

These are part of the support the Zacharias Sexual Abuse Center provides for their staff of professionals.

Executive Director Torrie Flink says that she is adamant about the self care of her staff and for a good reason.

"If they don't take care of themselves, they can't take care of others," Flink said.

Free kindergarten camps offered for parents

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

WAUKEGAN – United Way of Lake County is offering eight free kindergarten prep courses called Kindergarten Camp in the Waukegan and Round Lake communities. Taught by early education specialists, the kindergarten camps are designed to train parents to teach preschool-age children the basic skills necessary to succeed in kindergarten.

The Kindergarten Camp curriculum covers colors, shapes, counting and the alphabet. Each parent and child will go home with an array of workbooks, games and reading materials that reinforce the skills covered in the prep courses.

"Before entering the doors of kindergarten, children must have a solid foundation of knowledge to start their academic lives on the right foot," United Way of Lake County President and CEO Kristi Long said. "Our research found that many children entering the Waukegan and Round Lake school systems did not have this knowledge."

According to the school readiness assessment conducted by United Way of Lake County of students entering kindergarten in Waukegan and Round Lake, 85 percent were just beginning to recognize letters of the alphabet; 43 percent were just beginning or could not write their name; only 18 percent had any knowledge of rhyming words and only 33 percent could count to ten.

"Reversing these startling statistics begins at home with parents and primary caregivers becoming a child's first teacher," Long said. "Our kindergarten camps help parents and caregivers prepare their children to be ready to learn on the first day of school, which gives their children a better chance for success later in life."

New ideas just a sunrise away

An orange sun rises above the trees on the Kentucky horizon as I sit in the back seat of a rented hybrid traveling home with my fiancée and her parents.

We have just spent two days visiting my soon-to-be sister-in-law in Lexington, Ky., a city known for horses, whiskey and Wildcats, two of which I believe are sins to be big fans of.

It was a wonderful trip. We spent Easter at my fiancée's sister's church and then had a nice brunch. I tried a hot brown, which is an open-faced sandwich that contains enough meat to raise your cholesterol faster than a batting average on HGH.

After brunch, we visited the grave of Seattle Slew, which turned out not to be a grunge band, but rather a horse and a rather famous one at that. The brother of Mr. Ed, I believe. To tell the truth, I wasn't really paying attention. I'm not really into horses.

My fiancée's sister is, though. She works on one of the Lexington horse farms as a blood stock agent, which is a fancy term for an equine escort service. Think "Seabiscuit" meets "Fiddler on the Roof." Or, better yet, don't think about it all. It's for the best. Believe me.

The highlight of the weekend, though, might have been finding out that my soon-to-be sister-in-law's red-headed roommate (hello there, hyphen police) owns a copy of "The Warriors," which quite possibly is one of the best worst movies ever.

The plot of the movies is this: Guys in vests from Coney Island battle clowns in pinstripes with baseball bats, roller-skating dudes in suspenders, and the sleazy brother from "Twin Peaks." It really does not get any better than that.

I probably needed sleep, but I stayed up much too late watching "The Warriors" instead. "Can you dig it?"

All in all, it was a successful trip. Alas, even successful trips must end and now we're heading home.

The orange sun still is rising, but it's not making it much warmer. The outside temperature is 31 degrees Fahrenheit. You just can't escape the northern Illinois cold, which followed us down to Kentucky like a lost mutt. It snowed last night, and it looks as if someone sprinkled baby powder on the hills we're driving through.

I grew up in hills much like these in southern Indiana. My brother and I used to drive around those hills on weekends back in the days when gas was 80 cents a gallon. Up one hill, down another, while hanging out with some hamburgers, some French fries, and some good tunes. Nothing in front of us but our whole lives.

We never had a destination. We just drove. It didn't really matter where we went. It's a whole lot easier to have new experiences when you're not sure where you're going. It's when you know what's ahead of you at all times that life becomes routine and new experiences get buried with Seattle Slew, which, again, is not a grunge band.

If anything, this trip to Kentucky reminded me that life is about those new experiences.

Just on this trip, I got to see a famous horse's grave. I tried a new sandwich that quite possibly reduced my life expectancy by 15 minutes, and I watched an awesome movie, from which I gained a new-found respect for guys in vests from Coney Island.

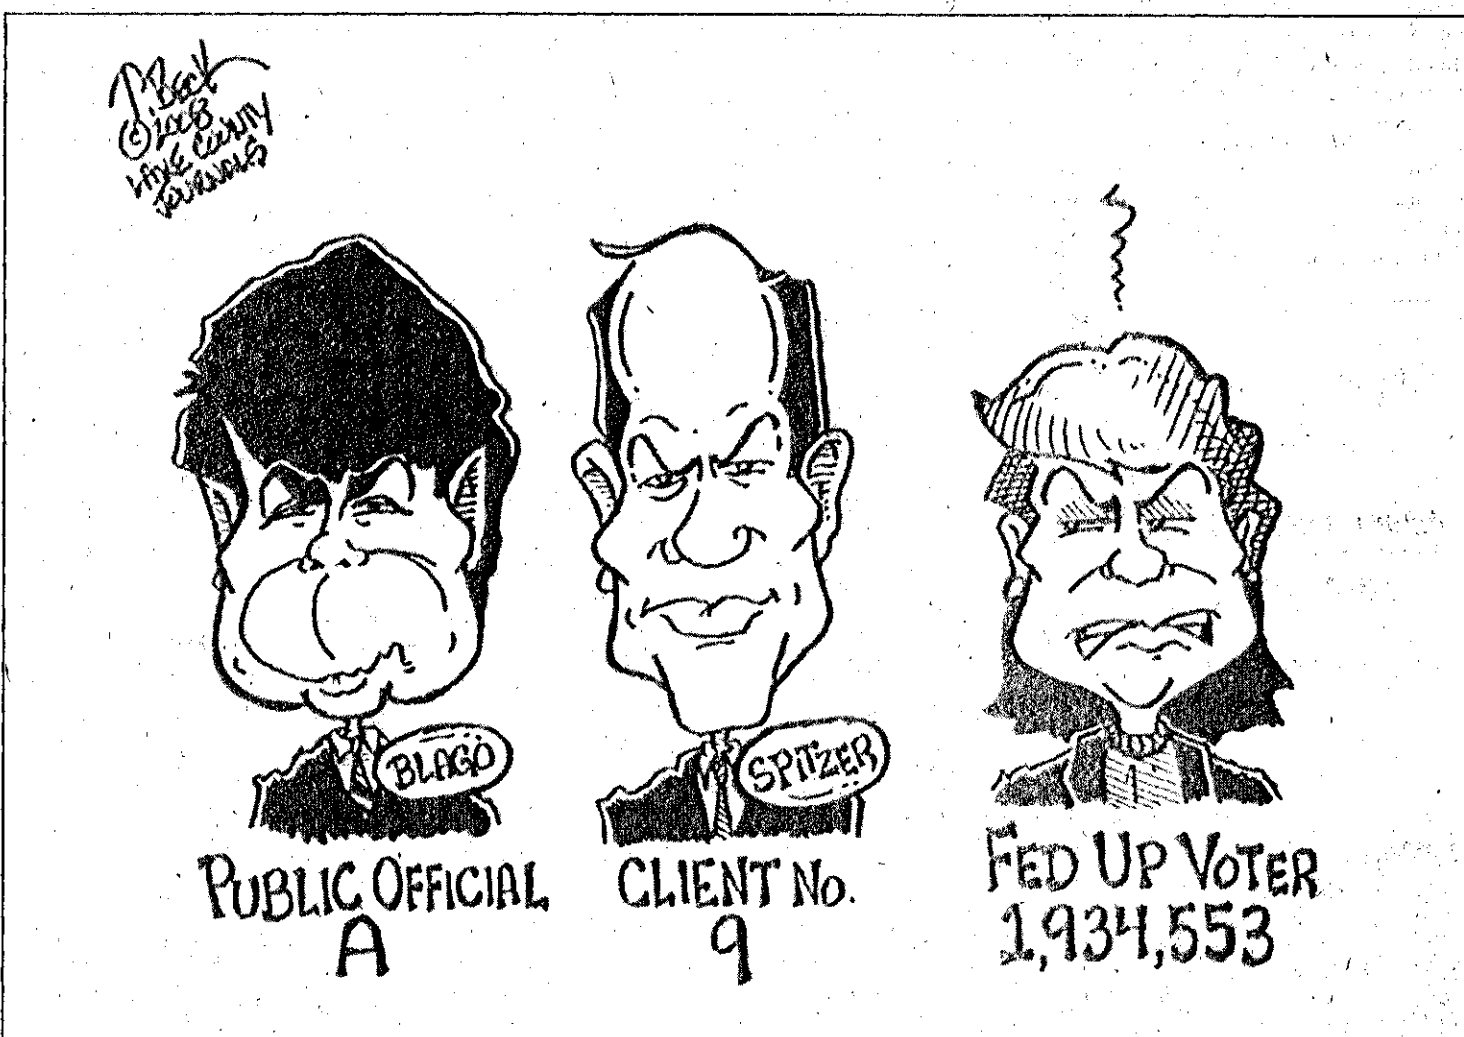

And all because I decided to accompany my fiancée and her parents to Lexington.

After skirting around Cincinnati, we reach Indiana just as the now-yellow sun reaches the point where it's probably unsafe for me to keep looking up at it. Which is just as well because it's time to look forward.

There's a sign ahead that says "Welcome to Batesville." Sounds somewhat frightening in a Hitchcockian kind of way. Batesville. Bates Motel. Same difference. In any case, I've never been here before. Who knows what adventures await?

Favre: All-American hero

To the Editor:
No. 4 is such an exceptional football hero.

Regardless of whatever team he might have chosen, it has been the Green Bay Packers' good fortune that Favre decided to play for 16 years with them.

Favre easily blended into Wisconsin's happy-go-lucky, "cheesehead," tailgating atmosphere.

He is appreciated and loved for everything he represents – boyish charm, an all-round ethical athlete, respect for his fellow teammates, and his appreciation for all his fans.

He certainly is an athlete who young people can emulate.

Too few athletes can claim that distinction today.

It has been callously speculated that his tearful display was embarrassing, unmanly and over-emotional at his recent press conference.

I believe the late Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey said it all: "A man without tears is a man without a heart."

Obama's comfort

To the Editor:
Re: The March 20 editorial "Obama and the pastor."

I strongly disagree that Sen. Barack Obama showed real courage.

He gets a failing grade on the issue of who you are when no one is looking.

When no one was looking, Obama was comfortable listening to anti-Semitic rantings about Israel; when no one was looking, Obama was comfortable listening to Clarence Thomas being called an Uncle Tom; when no one was looking, Obama was comfortable hearing our government caused the AIDS virus on people of color; when no one was looking, Obama was comfortable with America being described in the worst way and compared to al-Qaida.

Well, we're all looking now, and Obama clearly is uncomfortable with where he sat saying nothing for 20 years.

That is not courage.

GOP and the environment

To the Editor:
As a Republican and as an environmentalist, I am proud that our party's presidential candidate is Sen. John McCain.

McCain was the only candidate who understands the connection between conservative values and environmental stewardship. Pollution is waste. Waste and inefficiency go against Republican principles.

Our party needs to reclaim the high ground on environmental concerns from the Democratic party and make the environment bipartisan as it was for most of our nation's history. A national environmental organization gave McCain a "zero" score for missing some Senate votes.

That is misleading. He did not vote against the environment. While vigorously campaigning for the Republican presidential nomination, McCain unfortunately missed some votes.

But the scorekeepers unfairly assigned the same zero whether a senator voted against the environment or missed the vote.

McCain was disadvantaged as the only Republican nominee who also was a U.S. senator. He needed to campaign nonstop – unlike his opponents.

He did not have the luxury of returning to Washington for those votes. If he could have been present for the votes, the score would have been high.

But McCain would not have become the Republican nominee. America will be better for his environmental leadership upon becoming president.

'What experience?

To the Editor:

Hillary Clinton likes to toot her "experience" as a reason to choose her instead of Barack Obama. Let's take a look at some of those experiences:

• Her monumental failure at getting a national health plan in 1993-94.

• When the now disgraced Elliot Spitzer tried to grant driver's licenses to illegal immigrants in New York, she was all in favor. However, when she saw the negative reaction she did a 180-degree turn and claimed she never supported it in the first place.

This woman is so disingenuous that it is beyond pathetic.

Gas prices and oil profits obscenely high

The price of gas already is more than $4 a gallon in California.

We are told that Illinois and the rest of the country can look forward to $4-plus prices by the summer.

There seems to be a connection between the price of gas and the long war in Afghanistan and Iraq. Also, we might say that there's a link to the tenure of President George W. Bush.

In 2001, shortly after Bush's ascendancy to the presidency, we were paying about $1.50 a gallon for gas. We thought that was steep.

Isn't it strange that the only stretch where gas prices edged downward was in the months just before Bush's November 2004 re-election?

And they tell us that gas prices are determined by outside forces uncontrolled by government.

The outside forces are the oil companies and the oil-producing countries while the government watches from the sidelines.

John S. Matijevich

Remember, also, after the start of our entry into Iraq, when we were told that much of our costs toward the war effort would be recovered by oil revenues from the Iraqis? That bill of goods turned out to be a lot of gas.

Since Sen. John McCain has said that we might be in Iraq for 100 years, does that mean that Americans can look for the "surge" in gas prices to endure ad-infinitum?

When critics of the Iraq War kept repeating their slogan, "it's all about oil," we should have listened to them instead of our paid politicians.

So, it's about supply and demand? If that is true, the oil companies engineer the supply side, and they control the demand side, too, by demanding that we pay the obscenely high prices for gas. They have us "over a barrel," and we can't count on any help from the government.

Check the record. All of the oil companies, whether they are from the United States, England, Venezuela, the Middle East or anywhere else, have enjoyed ridiculously high record profits. On top of that, we have passed along subsidies to some of them.

That's taking public welfare to the "nth degree," giving public aid to some of the richest corporations in the world. That's public hand-outs to the greedy, not the needy.

It is a fact that oil companies control the supply of oil. There has been a virtual standstill, by design, of expanding their refineries.

They know that there's more profit when there's less supply. Also, the larger oil companies have merged with most of the smaller companies. That means that a handful of oil companies control most of the gas sold in America. Again, no competition. It has become an "industry monopoly" where they manipulate both the supply and the demand.

There's more. The whole supply-demand matter is a phony side show. It's all set by the unregulated oil futures investment market.

We should have learned from the Enron scandal how contrived, shady and phony the investment market can be.

Who is the sucker in all of this? We who pay the high pump prices. And it's not just Americans.

With the global economy, the obscenely high gas prices have become the largest international rip-off imaginable. Yes, it is all about oil – oil profits.

Finding ways to pacify kids

In my spare time, I enjoy checking out parenting Web sites and message boards, and I always get plenty of great advice from other moms.

When I'm having a particularly bad day, reading about other peoples' problems never fails to make me feel normal and well-adjusted.

Lately I've noticed a lot of moms dealing with the same hot-button issue — the pacifier. Mostly, how get rid of it.

Some parents go cold turkey or cut the tip so it is "broken" and must be thrown away. Others create a Paci Fairy, to whisk them away in the middle of the night.

All good ideas, and all, unfortunately, easier said than done. I know this from experience.

In my house, the boys called it binky. I referred to it as my "deal with the devil."

In the beginning, it tantalized this sleep-deprived mom with promises of silent car rides and sleep-filled nights and, thankfully, it delivered.

But there was a steep price to pay for this temporary bliss.

Soon the precious pacifier was an absolute requirement for every car ride and for all modes of sleep. Eventually, adult assistance was required to retrieve binky in the middle of the night, even though there were several in the crib within arm's length.

My oldest son, Antonio, kept his binky the longest, until well after his third birthday. Strangers would stare and glare as if they wanted to snatch it out of his mouth and throw it to the floor. (I can't really blame them, he was always tall for his age, with a full head of hair making him look at least 5).

My husband, Tim, is firmly in the anti-paci camp, so when we met, he obviously didn't share my "live and let live" attitude about binky. When I got pregnant with our daughter, we both readied for a showdown.

Amazingly enough, Angelina never displayed any interest in a pacifier, and the crisis was averted.

So, while many things are easier said than done, there can always be a rare occasion of fate smiling down on two people, even those who enjoy arguing about things that haven't happened yet.

His menacing, fiery eyes, forked tongue and sharp claws that protrude from spindly hands and feet are enough to send chills down anyone's spine.

Standing just a few feet tall, he's known for sucking the blood of goats and other livestock. But the chupacabra, spotted everywhere from Puerto Rico to Texas, is just a baby in terms of mythical beasts. His legend, started in the 1980s, is proof that human beings like to let their imaginations run wild, no matter how advanced the century.

The chupacabra is among more than 30 fabled beings featured in "Mythic Creatures: Dragons, Unicorns and Mermaids," open through Sept. 1 at The Field Museum in Chicago.

Although unicorns and dragons might sound like kid stuff, the exhibit celebrates something that is innate in everyone: curiosity.

"We crave things that are unknown," said Tom Skwerski, project manager for The Field Museum. "You go to Loch Ness and scientists have done sonar readings and said there's nothing there. Yet people flock there for a creature that doesn't exist."

Before presuming everything in "Mythic Creatures" is well, a myth, think again. Though non-existent, many of these creatures, such as the sea monsters invented by 15th and 16th century European explorers, are rooted in some truth. On display in the exhibit is a 6-foot section of a giant squid, an animal that likely prompted tall tales of the sea.

"It's like playing 'Telephone,'" Skwerski said. "It keeps changing and changing through oral traditions."

And there might not have been a Cyclops, but there certainly were dwarf elephants. A skull cast shows how ancient Greeks could easily have mistaken the trunk cavities of fossilized dwarf elephant bones for the Cyclops' single eye.

Near the exhibit's skull cast sits the fossilized femur bone of a woolly mammoth. Such a relic could have prompted Greeks to believe in human giants.

As for unicorns, the creatures themselves are fiction. But what about their majestic horns? These can be found today on the narwhal, a species of whale that has a long, thin tusk. During the Middle Ages, Danish sailors and other merchants sold the tusks as unicorn horns, which were thought to have magical properties.

"It's a very interesting question," Skwerski said. "What came first — the myth or the relic?"

A woolly rhinoceros skull in the exhibit was once thought to be the remains of a dragon slain before the founding of Klagenfurt, Austria.

"Even 1,000 years ago, people wouldn't have known about dinosaurs," Skwerski said. "Up until 200 years ago, 95 percent of the world's population was illiterate. The way you conveyed info was through stories."

"Mythic Creatures" also compares the similarities and differences of legends in various cultures. Although dragons in Western culture usually are depicted as frightening, fire-breathing monsters, the Asian dragon is revered. Hanging from the ceiling in the exhibit is a colorful, 120-foot-long Chinese parade dragon that requires 17 people to operate.

"What's special about [humans] is we have language, and we can tell stories," said Laurel Kendall, a curator in the division of anthropology at the American Museum of Natural History in New York. The American Museum collaborated with the Field Museum and other locations throughout the world for the exhibit. "This [exhibit] is a tribute to the human imagination, the ability to take elements of the natural world and elements of the made-up world and put them together and create something absolutely fantastic."

In an age when so much about the world we live in is known, people still have a desire for the unknown, Kendall said. And that might not be a bad thing.

"We are a curious bundle of primates," Kendall said. "We really want things out there that we can seek that are mysterious."

Texas-born Horton Foote knows how to tell a story – and has proven that many times in his heartwarming, realistic plays that get behind the facade of real people and reveal their inner humanity.

To Goodman Theatre's credit, it has chosen work by the award-winning 92-year-old playwright for a special 10-week festival, now wrapping up with one of Foote's most memorable efforts, "The Trip to Bountiful." Before it was adapted for Broadway, the play was presented by NBC in 1953 and starred Lillian Gish.

An outstanding performance by stage veteran Lois Smith fuels this bittersweet drama. She plays aged widow Carrie Watts, whose strongest than a 20-year absence.

When the opportunity presents itself, she seizes it and is undeterred that no one at the train station is familiar with Bountiful (or what's left of the town). Carrie Watts might be

'Stop-Loss' gets lost in a world of war

By JEFFREY WESTHOFF
sidetracks@nwnewsgroup.com

The brief history of films about Iraqi war veterans has been a woeful one.

"Stop-Loss," co-written (with Mark Richard) and directed by Kimberly Peirce, is at least an improvement from "Home of the Brave" or "In the Valley of Elah." While these films sincerely want to explore and expose the tribulations faced by young soldiers returning from Iraq—adjusting to life with missing limbs or overcoming feelings of persecution and suicide—the films run to the worst tendencies of liberal polemics.

"Home of the Brave," which got a limited theatrical release, compounds its hysterical politics with terrible acting and writing. And while I doubt writer-director Paul Haggis believes the Iraq war has turned 90 percent of its veterans into murderous thugs, his "In the Valley of Elah" comes awfully close to suggesting that. Peirce avoids the mistake of framing "Stop-Loss" as a prestigious Oscar-contender. "Stop-Loss," which comes from MTV Films, has a scrappiness to it. And Peirce's lead performers, Ryan Phillippe, Channing Tatum and Joseph Gordon-Levitt, are fine actors who look authentic in their roles.

Phillippe's character, Sgt. Brandon King, returns to his home in Texas after a tour in Iraq expecting to be discharged. Instead he is "stop-lossed," which effectively means, "There's a war on, son, so I'm afraid we can't let you go just yet." This is the central issue of Peirce's issue-packed film, but more than 30 minutes elapse before King gets this news.

King's lifelong pal and squad member, Sgt. Steve Shriver (Tatum), tells him to follow regulations, regardless. King's mother wants him to flee to Mexico. His Vietnam veteran father (a curiously underused Ciaran Hinds) tells him to reason with his commanding officer.

King listens to all this advice and goes AWOL. Joined by Shriver's fiancée, Michele (Abbie Cornish), King heads to Washington, D.C., convinced that the Texas senator who pinned the Purple Heart on his chest a few days ago will insist on the war hero's honorable discharge. King is amazingly naive on this score.

Peirce, returning to feature films for the first time since 1999's "Boys Don't Cry," patterns "Stop-Loss" after the socially relevant films of the early 1970s and social-issue pictures of the 1930s. Because "Stop-Loss" is a road movie, it intentionally echoes "The Last Detail," Hal Ashby's 1973 drama where Jack Nicholson is a Navy lifer escorting petty thief Randy Quaid to prison.

But "Stop-Loss" reminded me even more of something I caught on Turner Classic Movies a few months ago, "Wild Boys of the Road," a 1933 melodrama that exposed the plight of runaways during the Depression.

At every stop on his path to Washington, King meets a new character who delivers a lecture on an injustice faced by Iraqi War vets.

Peirce's goal is to get her audience, particularly that young MTV crowd, talking about the injustice of the military's stop-loss policy. And if the number of soldiers AWOL in America is as large as the film indicates, the media is missing a huge story.

But Peirce's urge toward propaganda conflicts with her desire to tell the characters' story. The result is a herky-jerky plot where central characters who come across as complex and believable are pushed aside for a stock player to come in raise another sociopolitical point.

The educational segments of "Stop-Loss" would work better in a documentary, but when Peirce does return to Phillippe and Tatum, she dramatizes the problems of the Iraqi War vet with more subtlety than we've seen from other filmmakers. That's a start.

Beva Caffe!: Enjoy a Warm, Italian Welcome at this Coffee Bar

By LESLIE GLAZIER-WERNER

Visit Beva Caffe! and the first thing you'll want to try is one of their inviting easy chairs. Coupled with the coffee bar's excellent coffee, it's no surprise that customers choose to linger here—reading, working, or chatting with each other or Beva Caffe's gracious owners.

As a result, business partners Kathy Godlewski and Terry Malone, already have a steady stream of "regulars" since opening 3 months ago in the new Golf Hill Retail Center across from Fox Lake Country Club.

After running the family printing machinery business for over 20 years, Kathy said she wanted to do "something completely different with the second half of my life." She moved to Fox Lake, where she realized there wasn't a good place to go for coffee and conversation. The idea for a coffee bar celebrating her Italian roots took hold, encouraged by her mother Maria, and her busi-of Schiller Park. Maria said their espresso, made with manual machines as opposed to automatic machines, is like comparing "a homemade meal with a TV dinner." I tried their popular "Caffe Caramella", a delicious caramel latte, reasonably priced at $2.95 for a small cup. Beva Caffe! also serves tea, hot chocolate, and cold beverages like fruit smoothies.

Kathy's mother serves up a tempting assortment of Italian pastries. The cannoli is made fresh every day, and there are eclairs and a selection of Italian cookies, along with "Aunt E's" handmade candies. Beva Caffe! also offers its own pocket sandwiches for breakfast or lunch, and Kathy said they plan on introducing more sandwiches and soups by the end of January.

Then there's the authentic Italian gelato. Terry said the gelato is "all natural, all fresh fruits and nuts, no powder," and that their "Gelato Affogato" – hazelnut gelato "drowned" with a shot of espresso—is a special treat.

Kathy said that they make every attempt to listen to their customers, from satisfying their requests for a certain flavor of gelato, to offering free WiFi and a drive thru window.

She added that they offer a customer appreciation card that allows patrons to collect points toward free beverages, and that seniors receive a 10% discount.

What's in a name?

If you've ever felt silly saying the name of your subdivision, you know what I mean.

"We live in Prettypuss Whimpering Oaks ... Phase 2." I'm not trying to put the kibosh on creativity, just don't make people giggle. I believe there are a number of housing developments known as Southwinds throughout the United States. Are you thinking what I'm thinking?

I once lived on a Passe. Not a street. Not an avenue. I always thought Pass with and "e" was French for "no longer fashionable." I guess it's also French for "road, avenue or driving dealie." But the first part of the address wasn't French. It was like Bubba's Passe. Please passe the peas. They seem to be behind the times. Let's throw them off the overpass.

How about we keep street names to two words and 11 letters or less?

"My you're cranky today, Miss Columnist," you might be thinking. "Who stood up for the prom?"

But have you thought of all the silly uber-dramatic names flying around? Think about the model name for your car. Someone has taken an aggressive action verb and added some unrelated sissy letters to the end to sound fancy-pants. "Low, low 1.9 financing on your new Attackla SL9!"

I have a German car with a German name. What happened to good old-fashioned angry animal names like Mustang, Ram, Barracuda and Badger?

I think my parents owned a Badger in the early '80s.

And what about these folks at the cat and dog shows?

Score one for the little guys

A few days ago, when his team's name was placed on one of the 65 lines in the NCAA tournament, Villanova coach Jay Wright had to defend his team's selection.

He had to explain that, despite his team's modest 20-18 record, its respectable but far from overwhelming 9-9 mark in the Big East, the Wildcats belonged in the field.

Folks at Virginia Tech and Dayton, Arizona State and Virginia Commonwealth, probably thought they deserved the spot, not middle-of-the-road Villanova.

So, Wright faced the questions.

On March 23, as the Madness was playing out all around him, Wright, whose team was deemed not worthy by so many just a few short days earlier, was asked this question after advancing to the Sweet 16 thanks to a victory against Siena.

[Villanova has been to] three Sweet 16's in the last four years. That is something that Duke, UConn, Syracuse, elite programs haven't even done. Do you consider the Villanova program now on that pedestal with the premier programs in the nation?

"It's an honor to be mentioned with those programs," Wright said.

How quickly perceptions can change in March. In the same week Villanova was belittled, people far and wide questioning whether they were on the same level of Dayton and VCU, they are now being compared with college basketball's upper crust.

And the lesson taught by Villanova - that, yes, anything can happen in March - is what makes the NCAA tournament the best sporting experience on the calendar.

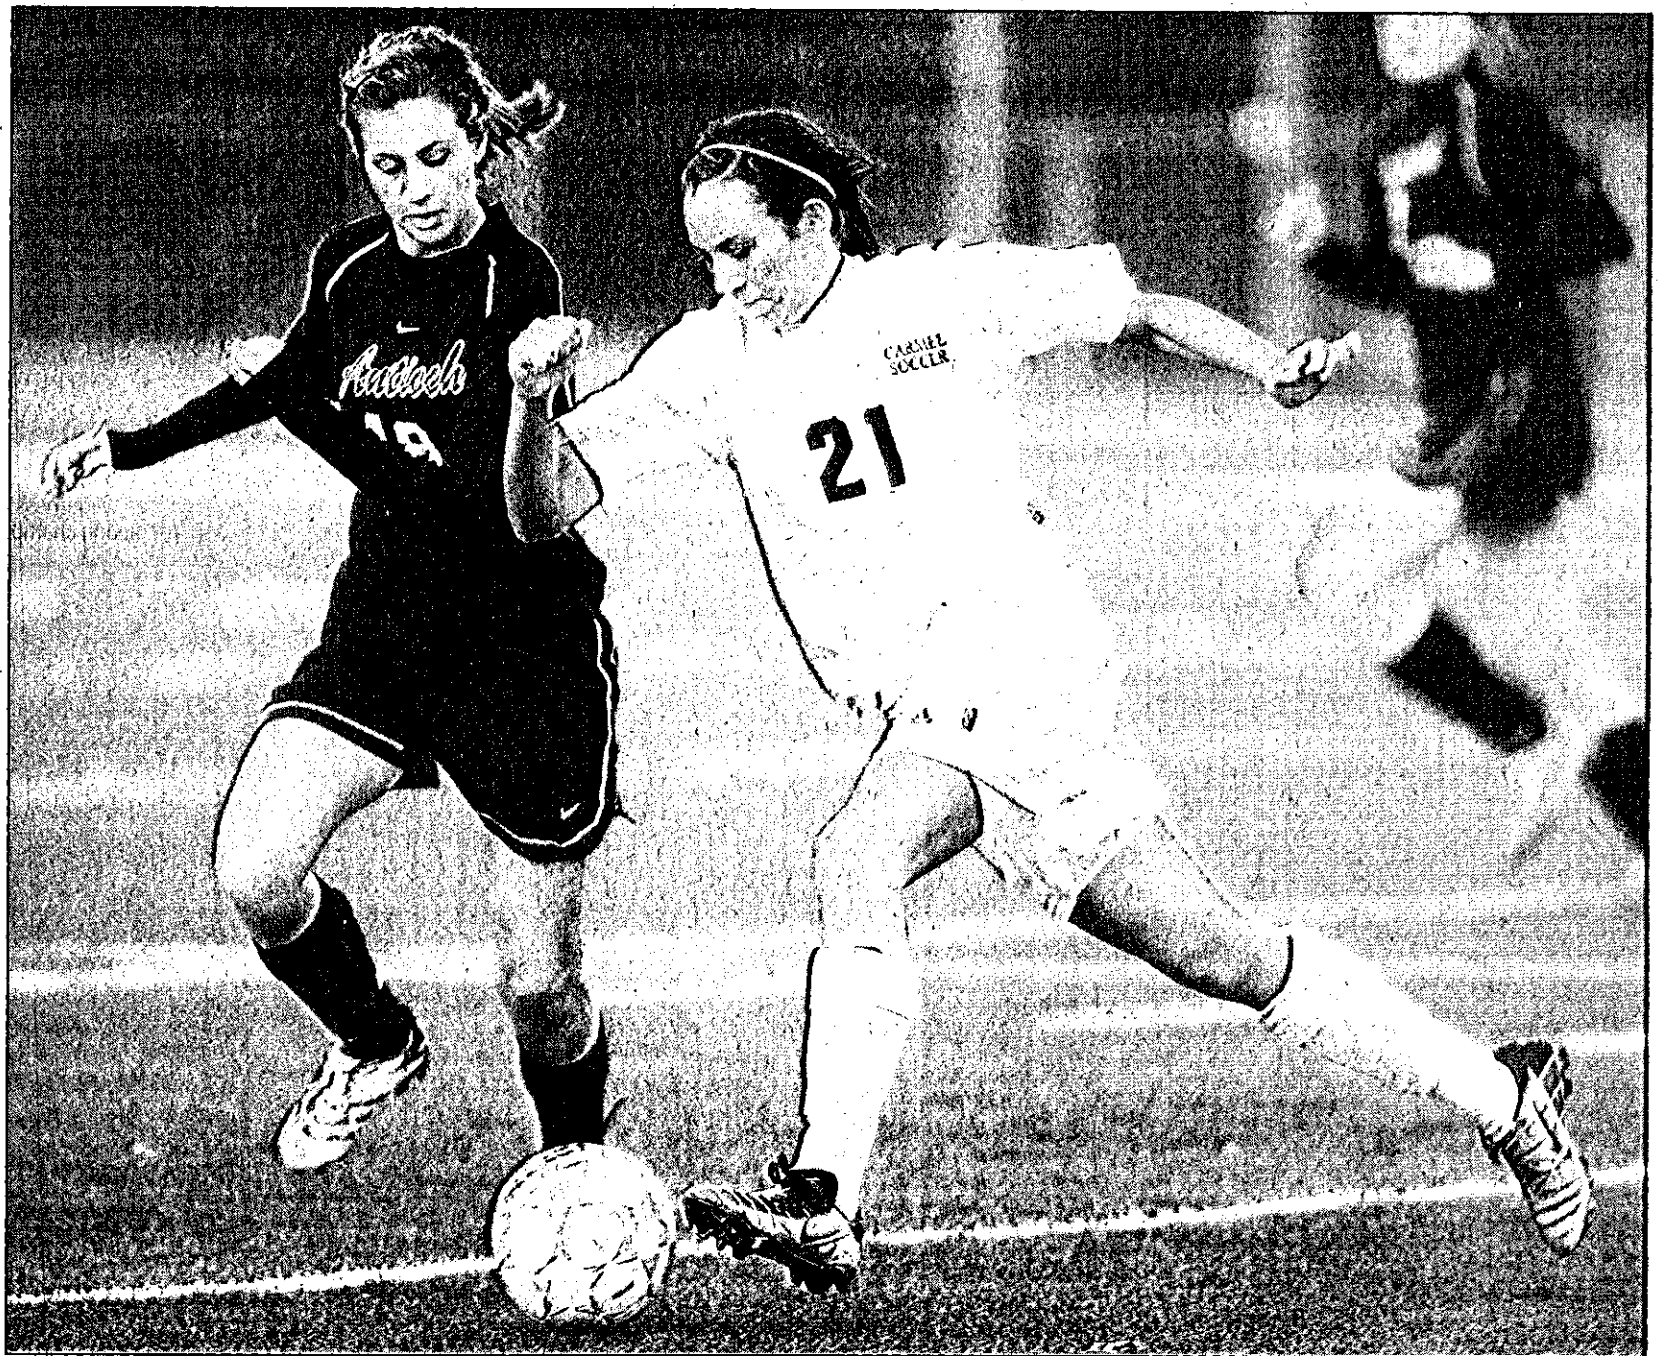

And Sunday afternoon, when the little guys challenged the big guys, when Davidson downed Georgetown and Butler challenged Tennessee, that truth never was more apparent.

Sunday's during the NFL season are nice. The NBA in June, when team's actually start playing defense, is entertaining. And during the play-offs, hockey becomes watchable. But nothing quite compares to March, which was obvious on this special Sunday of NCAA basketball.

When the tournament started, there was all sorts of noise, much of it whining from those not invited.

Now, listen. All you can hear are the sweet sounds of Madness.

Carmel sets high goals after last season's sectional title

By JESSICA JACOBSEN
jjacobsen@nwnewsgroup.com

MUNDELEIN - Living up to high expectations can be a daunting task, but it is one that John Halloran and the Carmel girls soccer team is ready to do.

Following a sectional championship, the Corsairs return 10 veteran starters.

"We're pretty excited about what we have," Halloran said.

Last season, Carmel was 19-5-1 overall and 8-0-1 in the Eastern Suburban Catholic Conference.

"We feel we're a really strong team," Halloran said.

That team includes the likes of juniors Alex Hauser, F/OM, Maddie Ogrinc, CM/F, sophomore Cassidy Brown, F, and senior Sara Petermann.

Halloran said they all have speed and skill, which will result in a good scoring threat. Ogrinc actually recorded three goals and an assist in a game against Antioch on March 20. Carmel won 5-2. Hauser also recorded a goal, while Petermann had a goal and an assist.

Get the low down

• For an analysis on other area girls soccer teams, read the April 3 edition of the Lake County Journals.

But Halloran isn't putting all the emphasis on his forwards, he also is pleased with the effort he gets from his mid-field.

Halloran has a lot of faith in mid-field seniors Stephanie Swanson, CM, Liz Perrenot, D/CM, and Emily Tripicchio, CM. He said he thinks they are smart with the ball and are very athletic.

The Corsair defenders also should be successful this season, Halloran said.

The experience from his defenders will help the team to hold opponents to a goal or less a game, Halloran said.

That experience will come from seniors Deanna LaPenta, D, Nikki Boland, D, Kiersten Trillhasse, D, and Julie Schaser, D, along with junior Kelly Schoen, D.

This year Halloran would like to aim for an ESCC title and sectional title again.

Deanna LaPenta of Carmel prepares to throw in the ball in a game against Antioch. The Corsairs return many of their veteran starters from last season's sectional championship team.

GMS student wins state wrestling title

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

GRAYSLAKE - Joel Valdivia won the 189 weight class championship at the Illinois Elementary School Association wrestling tournament, which was at Northern Illinois University's Convocation Center. Valdivia earned the right to compete by finishing first in the Oak Grove Sectional. The top three place finishers from eight separate sectionals earn an opportunity to wrestle for the State Crown. Valdivia started his road to victory with a first round pin of Dimiti Bonilla from Romeoville Lukancic.

Valdivia then defeated Camp Point Central's Zach Dively. The victory gave Valdivia the chance to face Oscar Aguilar of DeKalb Clinton Rosette in the semifinal match. Valdivia advanced to the championship with an 11-10 final score.

In the championship match Valdivia faced Jordan Watkins of Jacksonville Turner. Valdivia scored the only points of the first period with a takedown giving him 2-0 lead. Valdivia defeated Watkins 7-1 victory for the 189 pound state title.

Valdivia becomes the first Grayslake

Middle School student to earn a state wrestling title and the first medalist since Danny Mendoza finished third in 2006 at the 112 weight class. Avon Center School did have three champions prior to consolidating with Grayslake's District 46. The first is Grant Community High School's Ryan Geist, he won his championship title in 1986. In the next year, he was joined by Lakes Community High School head coach Curt Onstad. In 1988 Eric Olsen joined the ranks of Avon Center wrestler's with a state titles. Valdivia ends his eighth grade wrestling career undefeated at 20-0.

Get flawless painting results with simple prep

(MS) — From Sapphire Sparkle to Frosty Pomegranate, Honey Bear to Misty Gray — transforming the look of a room with a beautiful color is as simple as a fresh coat of paint. A new coat of paint may be the easiest — and least expensive — way to transform a room, it's the prep work that is the key to outstanding results. A few basic tips will ensure gorgeous results you'll be proud to show.

Organize your tools: A quick inventory will ensure you have the right stuff — brushes, sponges, rollers, plastic bags, rags, paint can opener and drop cloths. Keeping your tools together in one place will make the process go more smoothly.

Take the time you need to prep: Don't try to get the whole painting project done in one day. Take a day to complete prep work such as, washing walls, putting painter's tape around doors and windows, filling holes and cracks, and covering your wall and ceiling fixtures with large plastic bags.

Clear the room: If you can, clear out all the furniture and accessories. What you can't take out, put in the middle of the room and cover with a drop cloth. Be sure that you tape the cloth around the furniture and cover with a second sheet of plastic or old sheet.

Remove all hardware: To avoid the "paint around" that can lead to odd circles, streaks, or drips, remove switch plates, outlets, knobs and hinges and bag each with its screws. You will be glad you did when you're ready to put them back on.

Find your paint pants: Don't forget to wear old clothes and protect your hair with a hat or headband. Slip on shoes will let you leave the room and not accidentally track paint into other rooms. Even with the best of intentions, it's hard not to get a few drips and drops on yourself. Now you are ready to prepare the walls.

Don't paint over problems: Paint doesn't cover cracks and holes in the wall. Take the time to fill and you'll end up with a smoother surface. Spackling holes and cracks is the simplest way to go.

But spackling the old fashioned way can be, well... old fashioned. Liberate yourself from dried out cans of spackle, hunting for the putty knife, and ending up with wall "craters" from shrinking putty. With Painter's® Nail Hole Filler from Eclectic Products, repairing holes is a one-step process because the unique sponge applicator and texturizer is right on the end of the tube. This general-purpose spackling requires no mixing and goes on with just a squeeze of the tube — without a putty knife! The sponge tip evens out and finishes the surface to match the wall surface, textured or smooth, with no scraping or sanding required. Painter's® Nail Hole Filler works on any wall texture or composition (wood, stucco, wallboard or plaster).

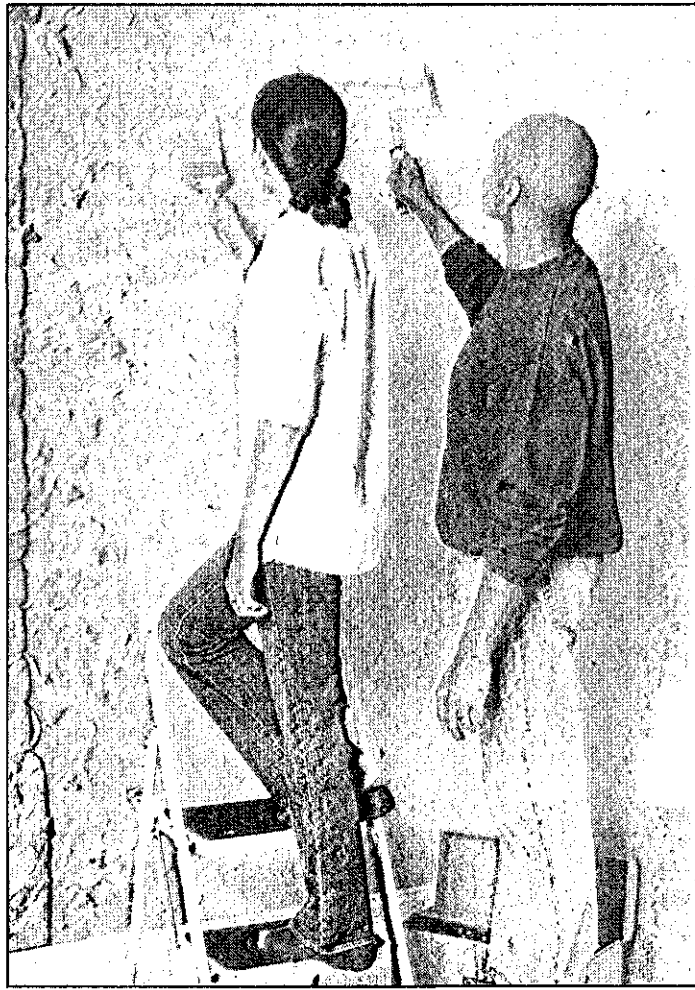

The product dries to a smooth finish. Your wall will be ready to paint in 15 minutes. And cleanup is a breeze. Just wash the sponge tip with warm water and replace the cap for the next use. Painter's Nail Hole Filler will not dry out, like other brands, and will remain pliable when clear cap is replaced. Just store it at room temperature and knead spackling within tube prior to use.

Whether your color passion is Pickle, Coconut Husk or Verve Violet, your color choices will glide on and look flawless.

Most home improvement and hardware stores carry a large variety of spackling products, including Painter's Nail Hole Filler. For more information about Painter's Nail Hole Filler and Eclectic's other fine products, contact Eclectic Products at 1-800-767-4667 or visit the company's Web site at www.eclecticproducts.com

Before you can paint, you should prep properly. This includes filling holes, cracks and other imperfections in the walls first.

Increase home value with customized outdoor living spaces

(MS) — You've re-done the bathroom, laid hardwood floors in the kitchen and finally added that deck you have been dreaming of. Increasing your home's value is typically thought of as requiring months of construction and thousands of dollars. However, taking your home renovations outdoors to create a unique outdoor living space can take minimal time and will provide valuable square footage.

In fact, three of the four types of home improvement projects that significantly increased a home's value at the time of resale were exterior upgrades, according to The National Association of Realtor's "2007 Remodeling Cost vs. Value Report." These improvements include replacing siding, adding wood decks and upgrading wood windows. Other upgrades that increase home value include landscape lighting, upgraded patio furniture and creating an "outdoor room" by adding an awning over a deck or patio.

"With recent housing market fluctuations, it's more important than ever to make economical home upgrades," says Michelle Sahlin, managing director of the Professional Awning Manufacturers Association (PAMA). "Expanding outdoor living is not only economical as it adds valuable square footage to the home, but it's also functional. Increasing outdoor living space creates another area of the home where people can cook, play, entertain or even relax — ultimately increasing the home's value."

Outdoor rooms are already being seen in million-dollar "showcase" homes. There are covered eating areas next to the pool, covered outdoor cooking spaces with refrigerators and gas grills, and even outdoor home theaters with built-in projector screens or enclosed plasma televisions. These trends in outdoor living are not only for the rich and famous — the ideas can be incorporated into

Quality for less at Volo Village Bedding & Furniture

By LESLIE GLAZIER-WERNER

There's another reason to visit the popular Volo Antique & Auto Museum complex now that Volo Village Bedding & Furniture has opened in Mall #5. If you're in the market for new furniture or bedding, owner Tom urges you to shop his store for quality merchandise at prices 30-50% below retail.

Tom, his wife Cindy, and partner Buddy have a combined 55 years in the furniture business. Tom said he himself has spent 28 years in the business running 6 furniture stores. "So I know what it is to get quality furniture for the consumer." "I do things the Old World way. I hand pick my furniture lines and give you the personal attention the 'Big Boys' can't give," Tom added.

Tom noted that they carry only middle to upper end furniture "at unbelievably low prices." Tom listed the brand name manufacturers on display in their showroom, like Stratolounger, Pulaski, Ashley, and Chromcraft. He said they also carry finely crafted grandfather clocks "made by Ridgeway, 'the best clock manufacturer in the world.'" According to Tom, these clocks sell online for 40% more than they offer.

Tom said they are able to offer the customer significant savings because they don't have the overhead of large furniture stores. "But don't let our size fool you," he added. Tom explained that since they work with so many manufacturers and distributors the customer is able to pick from a wide selection of furniture catalogs, in addition to items on the floor. As a result, the customer can "customize" a purchase by choosing among "tons" of fabrics and styles.

Currently Volo Village Bedding & Furniture is running special promotions on its living room groups, recliners, bedroom sets, mattresses, and dining room sets. For example, furnish your entire living room with a sofa, loveseat, cocktail table, two end tables, and two lamps at a starting price of only $499.00.

Tom stressed that Volo Village Bedding & Furniture is a place where "the customer is treated fairly, and told the truth." Tom said he works with his customers to find the best furniture for their needs, and, "best of all, everything is a deal."

Design Creative Spaces for Your Home or Office

(MS) — Looking for a space that will help foster your creativity at home or work? There's an easy way to encourage your next big idea — or a whole batch of them — while adding pizzazz to your office or living space.

Start with versatile surfaces that allow you to doodle, draw and even build. Then accent your environment with one or more vivid, saturated colors that inspire. Here are a few ideas for turning any space into creativity central:

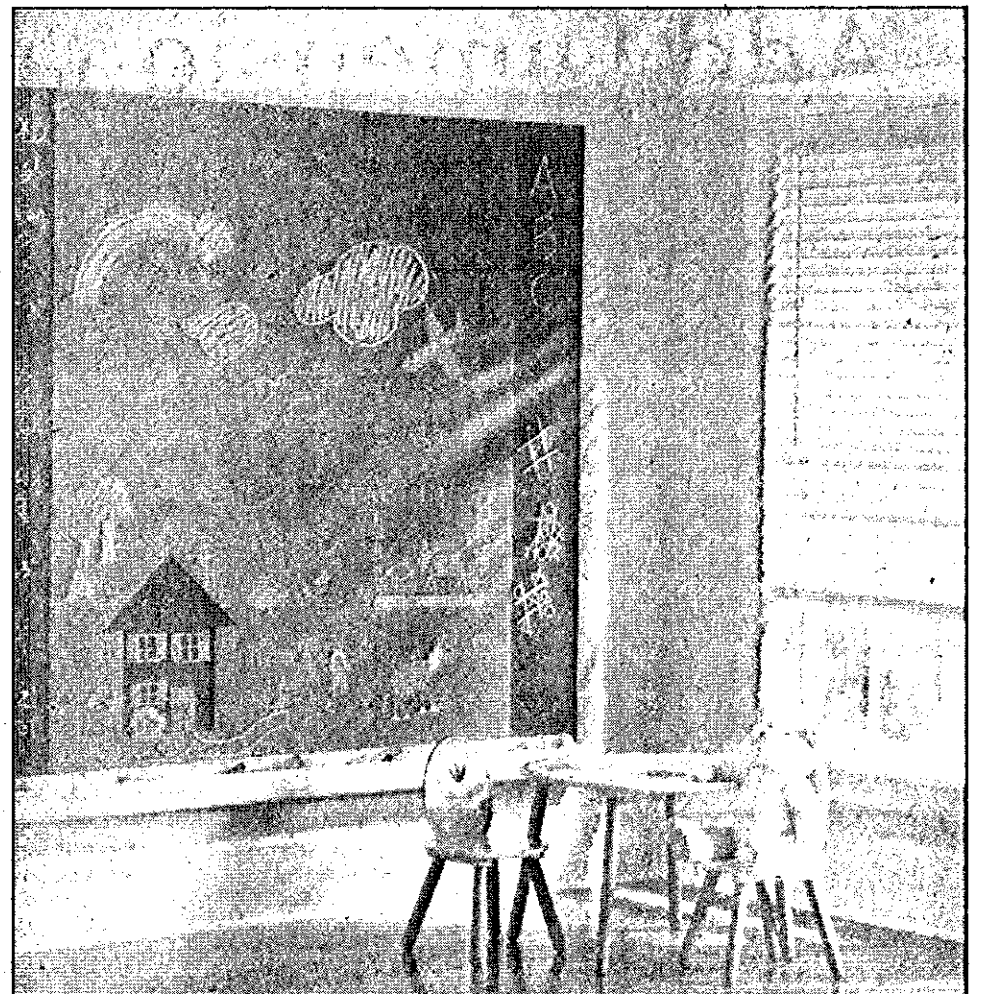

- Unleash your imagination. Paint a colorful accent that will boost your creativity and unleash your inner child with Rust-Oleum's new Chalkboard Tint Base paint. Choose one of 12 inspiring colors that provide a unique writable-erasable chalkboard finish. Transform a wall, door or desktop into a colorful space for pictures, words or flow charts. According to color research, purple is the color of imagination. Try different Chalkboard colors like Grape Fizz to bring out your inner Picasso. Or, tap into the energy of red by painting a wall with Chalkboard Fresco Red. Mount a chalk holder nearby to be sure that ideas are easy to capture.

- Take a vacation from the mundane. Reserve a special space within your home for inspiration — and maybe even a celebration of your latest work. Whether it's an entire wall or a smaller area, apply Rust-Oleum's Specialty Magnetic Primer as a base coat for your paint. It makes almost any surface able to attract magnets. Top coat with your favorite wall paint and add extra energy with funky magnets to hang photos, notes, daily thoughts — anything that will spark your imagination. Liven up your thinking space with Buttercup Yellow or Apple Red paint on furniture and accents. Both are high energy colors that inspire creativity.

- Create an office brainstorming room. It's often difficult to pull yourself away from the phone or e-mail when you need to come up with an original idea. That's why many companies dedicate a conference room for brainstorming. To create your own special space, be sure to leave room to draw out your next big idea with Rust-Oleum Dry Erase Paint. It turns doors, walls, cabinets and more into a unique, writable-erasable surface. Don't forget brightly colored dry erase markers — a perfect accessory for brainstorming ideas! Add artwork, bright colored walls and comfy sofas to the room and let your thoughts run wild.

Need more color inspiration? Visit PaintIdeas.com. It's the destination for inspiring decorating ideas and creative projects for every room in your home or office.

Turn any wall in your home into an artist's canvas. Chalkboard and magnetic finishes make creativity possible anywhere.

Keeping good records makes tax time easier

You can avoid headaches at tax time by keeping track of your receipts and other records throughout the year. Good recordkeeping will help you remember the various transactions you made during the year, which in turn may make filing your return a less taxing experience.

Records help you document the deductions you've claimed on your return. You'll need this documentation should the IRS select your return for examination. Normally, tax records should be kept for three years, but some documents — such as records relating to a home purchase or sale, stock transactions, IRA and business or rental property — should be kept longer.

In most cases, the IRS does not require you to keep records in any special manner. Generally speaking, however, you should keep any and all documents that may have an impact on your federal tax return:

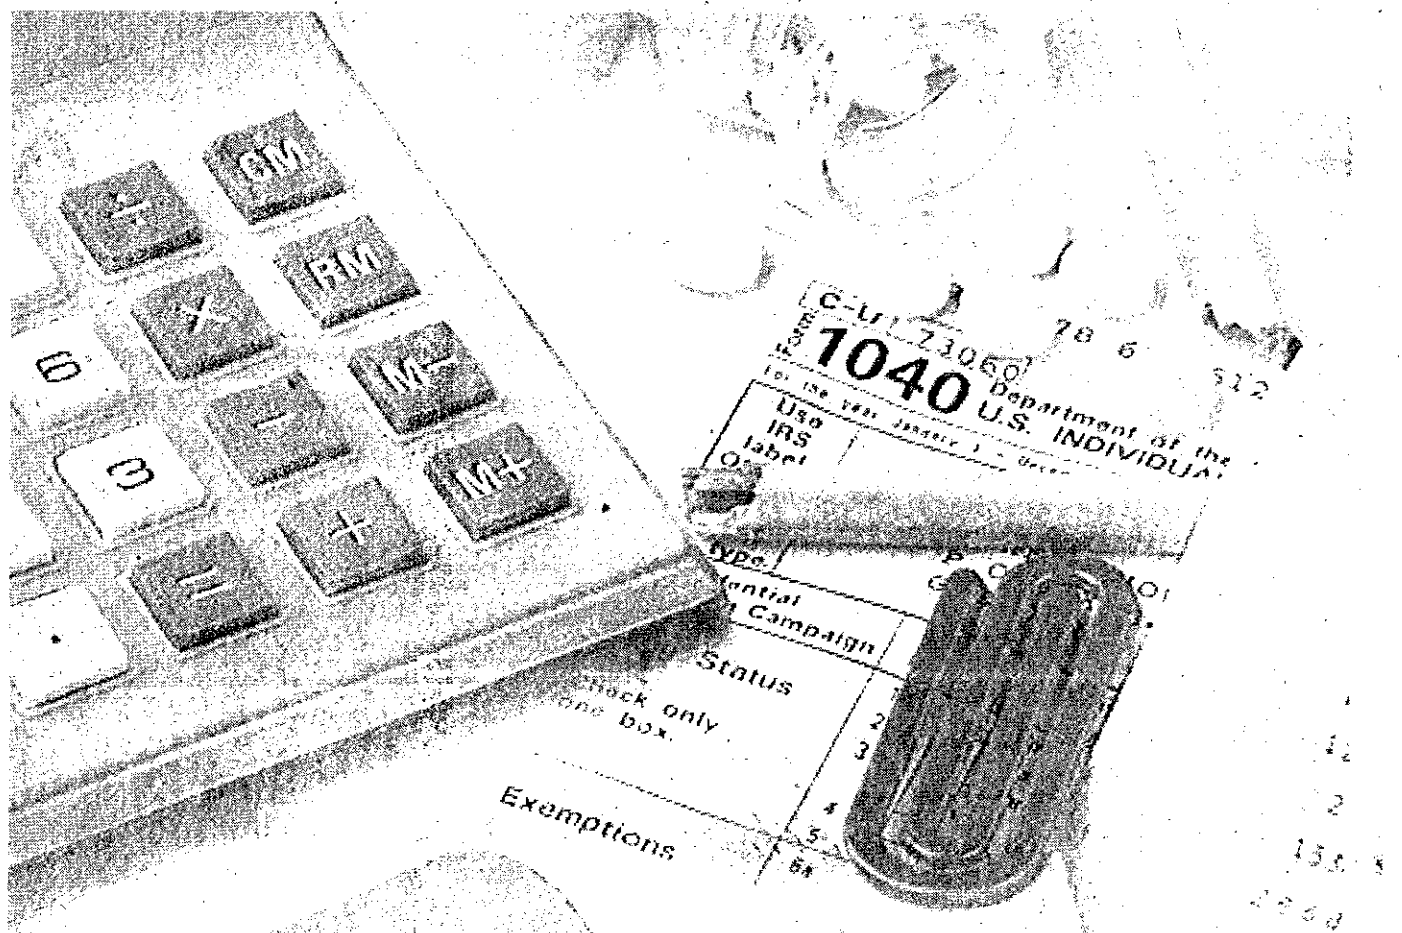

- Bills
- Credit card and other receipts
- Invoices

- Mileage logs
- Canceled, imaged or substitute checks or any other proof of payment
- Any other records to support deductions or credits you claim on your return.

Good recordkeeping throughout the year saves you time and effort at tax time when organizing and completing your return. If you hire a paid professional to complete your return, the records you have kept will assist the preparer in quickly and accurately completing your return.

For more information on what kinds of records to keep, see IRS Publication 552, Recordkeeping for Individuals, which is available on IRS.gov or by calling 800-TAX-FORM (800-829-3676).

Remember, that for the genuine IRS Web site be sure to use .gov. Don't be confused by Internet sites that end in .com, .net, .org or other designations instead of .gov. The address of the official IRS governmental Web site is www.irs.gov. (SPM Wire)

Add Dimensional Effects to Your Walls

(MS) — Looking for a new way to add texture and dimension to your home décor? Consider a textured stencil. It is a quick and relatively easy way to add style and dimension to any painted surface. With a few simple tools, and some tips from decorative painting experts, you can instantly update the look of any room. Follow these steps from Modern Masters® for a professional looking project:

Start with a previously painted or primed surface that is clean, dry and free of dust. Before you begin, gather all of your stenciling materials in one place — stencils, painters' tape or repositionable spray adhesive, measuring tape, metal trowel, texturing medium — and make sure the surface you're about to stencil is dry and sound.

Select a stencil for your project. Stencils can be purchased at paint and craft stores everywhere and are available in nearly every shape and size imaginable. Modern Masters makes a line of Royal Stencil Exclusives that are available in 20 designs in four different designer styles to spur your imagination. Choose from Ornamental, Exotic Worlds, Far East or Botanicals styles.

Follow the reference guide located on the stencil and position it on the correct area on the wall. Use painters' tape or repositionable spray adhesive to position the stencil onto the desired area and press firmly down.

For a dimensional effect, use Modern Masters® Texture Effects Multi-Purpose Texturing Medium instead of ordinary latex paint. This water-base acrylic plaster-like medium can be tinted to any desired color at your local paint store, or with universal colorants. Highly durable and versatile, Texture Effects can be used as an all over wall texture or for stenciling, raised relief, heavy distressed textures and to correct wall imperfections. It is water-resistant, will not shrink or crack while drying like other texturing mediums, and is hard once cured. For the ultimate textured look, create an over all textured wall finish with Texture Effects and when dry, add a stenciled look using the texturing medium again.

Using a flat angle, trowel Texture Effects over and through the stencil using a light, even pressure like icing a cake to keep the material from being pushed under the stencil. Once you have the texture smooth and even, carefully lift the stencil pulling straight away from the wall and admire your work! Repeat the pattern and texture throughout the surface to achieve your desired effect.

To learn more about decorative painting techniques and products available, visit www.modernmasters.com, or call Modern Masters at 1-800-

Make Sure Your Car Looks Cool When Warm Weather Arrives

Banish the Winter Blues and Get Ready to Cruise

(MS) — Sunny skies and spring breezes are just around the corner, and that means family vacations, cruising to the beach, driving to cookouts and tailgating at outdoor events. But if your car is still wearing a winter coat of salt, sludge, dirt, and grime, it may well be overlooked at the warm-weather festivities — and it could create long-term performance issues for your car's engine, undercarriage and paint finish.

But a few simple tips from 3M Car Care can get your vehicle ready for spring style and summer fun in the sun while improving its horsepower, fuel efficiency and drivability.

"Spring cleanup for your car is just as important as cleaning your house or working on your lawn after a long winter," said John Mailand, technical services manager for 3M Retail Automotive. "The harsh weather can be hard on your car's mechanical systems, while tough road conditions can wreak havoc on your car's exterior. With a few easy cleaning and maintenance projects in the spring, you can get rid of winter's damage and make your car look — and run — great during the warm weather months."

Mailand knows a few things about cleaning winter-damaged vehicles from his many years in the freezing Minneapolis climate. While 3M engineers complete thorough testing of their products and recommended processes in the laboratory, Mailand and his team take their testing to the streets. In fact, they field tested the new 3M Performance Finish over the winter and found it stood up to 50 washes without losing its shine or protective qualities.

Exterior Clean-Up and Protection

For the car's exterior, the key is to get all of the exterior finishes thoroughly washed and restored, then protected with a long-lasting finish to stand up to hot sun and coastal climates. The top 10 tips include:

1. Give it a good bath with 3M Car Wash Soap to remove winter salt, sand, dirt and grime without removing wax protection.

2. Remove the tar and debris with 3M Adhesive and Wax Remover. Just rub it on with a microfiber cloth, let sit for a few minutes to loosen dirt, old wax and tar, then wipe off.

3. Clean the wheels and tires with 3M Wheel and Tire Cleaner to remove brake dust and highway grime.

4. Restore tires to brand new finish with 3M Tire Restorer. Just spray on and wipe off for a deep black luster. 3M Tire Restorer is also good for restoring black plastic bumpers and door handles to showroom style.

5. Protect the clean finish on the wheel hubs or rims with 3M Performance Finish. Just wipe on and wipe off. Not only will it stand up to months of car washes, it also will endure tar and debris from summer road construction.

6. Remove surface scratches with 3M Scratch Remover. This new product quickly removes the scratches from the paint and gradually bring back a high-polish finish. For deeper scratches use One Step Cleaner Wax. This easy to apply wax eliminates surface scratches and restores the shine to the paint finish in one easy step.

7. Give the car a good protective coat of 3M Performance Finish. This innovative finish, which chemically bonds with clear coat finishes, keeps the car's finish looking good through up to 50 washes. And it is simple to apply with no hazing — just wipe on and wipe off in minutes using a 3M Microfiber Cloth without any worries for residue left in cracks and crevices.

8. Get the glass clean inside and out with 3M Glass Cleaner, which has a unique vertical cling to prevent drips and is safe to use on glass, plastic, chrome, metal and painted surfaces.

9. Protect the upholstery with 3M Leather and Vinyl Restorer, which revives the natural sheen and soft feel of the factory finish.

10. Clean the car's carpet with 3M Carpet Cleaner and remove winter salt and dirt with 3M Scotchgard™ Fabric and Upholstery Protector spray.

"A great finish is like sunscreen for your car," added Mailand. "It makes the car shine while protecting from damaging sunshine. Once you've cleaned and protected your car, all you need to do is wash it at least once a month to remove dirt and tar. You'll be ready to cruise all summer long."

Give Your Car an Extra Boost for Summer

It isn't just the exterior of the car that needs a little extra cleanup from winter — so be sure to check the car's mechanical system, fluids and components. 3M recommends eight easy tasks that can be done at home to improve the car's performance during hot weather, including:

1. Clean the engine bay to remove damaging residue. Warm up the engine for a few minutes, then spray water throughout engine compartment with hose and nozzle. Spray 3M Engine Degreaser on the engine and use 3M Tire Restorer on rubber hoses to add moisture and prevent cracking. Spray underbody of car and wheel wells to remove salt and sand.

2. To improve towing performance and transmission longevity, use 3M Transmission Oil Treatment, which reduces formation of sludge and varnish; improves protection against wear for moving parts and metal components and increases shear stability to maintain fluid viscosity and reduce oil thinning.

Roger Strohbeen of St. Paul, Minn., gets his 1952 Chevy two-door sedan ready to shine in the summer sun.

3. Prevent rough idling with 3M Throttle Plate and Carb Cleaner. Just spray it on to the throttle plate to clean, lubricate and increase engine performance.

4. Add 3M Complete Fuel System Cleaner to clean fuel injectors, intake valves and combustion chambers for maximum power and fuel economy.

5. Check the tire pressure and fill to the manufacturer's recommendation. Hot weather increases tire pressure, which can lead to blown tires on the highway — not a great way to spend your vacation time.

6. Prepare door, hood and trunk hinges, locks and other moving parts with 3M Multi-Purpose Spray Lubricant. This lubricant is four products in one — it lubricates, penetrates, displaces water and resists corrosion.

7. Flush the coolant system and check your fluids. Summer driving can mean lots of bugs on the windshield, so be prepared.

8. Check the battery. If it is four years or older, it might be a good time to replace it, particularly if the car is operated in a cold climate.

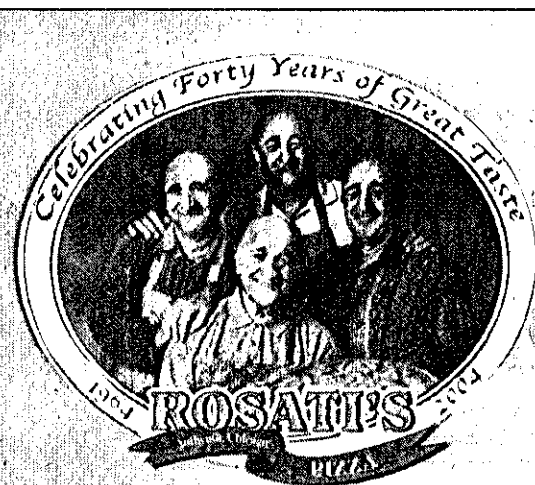

"Whether you're cruising the beach or just cruising to the office, your car gets more attention during the spring and summer," Mailand said. "Now you can make your car look great — quickly and cost efficiently — while enjoying the sun in your own driveway. At 3M Car Care, we're focused on providing consumers — whether new DIYers or automotive enthusiasts — the smart solutions to get the job done right, all backed by 3M's trusted science and innovation."

The 3M Car Care product line is a comprehensive line of 3M products for automotive maintenance. The innovative product line includes performance cleaning products, waxes, compounds, glazes, adhesives, abrasives and specialty products, previously available exclusively to the professional market. 3M's Automotive Aftermarket Division serves the automobile owner and hobbyist as well as professional body shop, recreational vehicle and mechanical service markets.

The 3M Car Care product line can be found at leading automotive aftermarket retailers and online through select distributors. For more information on 3M Car Care products, visit www.3Mcarcare.com.

Stop Fires in the Kitchen

(MS) — What's the No. 1 cause of unintentional fires at home? It's not cigarettes or faulty heating equipment. According to reports by the National Fire Prevention Association (NFPA), hundreds of people are killed and thousands are injured each year because of cooking-related fires.

In 1999, the latest year for which statistics are available, there were 96,200 home structure fires attributed to cooking equipment, including 1,800 fires confined to a cooking vessel. These fires resulted in 331 civilian deaths, 4,183 civilian injuries, and $511.3 million in direct property damage. Three out of four home cooking fires involve the range. And two thirds of the time, according to one study, the fires start within the first 15 minutes of cooking. Something most people do each day has the potential for being life-threatening if safety isn't maintained.

During the winter, the potential for cooking-related fires increases. Many people retire from outdoor grill use for the year and spend more time around the kitchen stove. Additionally, with the holidays just around the corner, there is greater emphasis placed on creating home-cooked meals.

The NFPA also states that the incidences of cooking fires are not declining at the rate of other home fires. Therefore, an added safety push is necessary.

"Cooking fires remain one of the toughest problems we face," says John R. Hall Jr., Ph.D., of NFPA's Fire Analysis and Research Division. "We have made less headway in preventing cooking fires than in preventing other kinds of home fires."

Forgetfulness and inattention are stated as the top reasons behind kitchen flare-ups. In most instances, fires start when the person doing the cooking is in another room. Upon discovering the fire, many people are injured attempting to fight the fire themselves — usually in an improper manner. Oftentimes, the first inclination is to stop the fire with an extinguisher or water. This can actually spread or splatter cooking materials, further aggravating the fire. Typically, smothering it with a pan lid or closing the oven is the safest thing to do, apart from calling in the fire department.

To help keep the home safe while cooking, the NFPA offers these important tips:

- Don't leave cooking food unattended.
  - Roll up sleeves while cooking and don't wear loose clothing.
  - Keep children and pets away from cooking areas. Maintain a three-foot "safe zone" around the stove.
  - Keep pot handles turned in to avoid spills. Try to cook foods on the back stovetop burners when possible.
  - Keep potholders, dish towels, food packaging and other clutter off the stovetop. Don't place anything atop a toaster oven where it can ignite when the unit is in use.
  - Clean cooking equipment; built-up grease can catch fire.
- An added safety pointer is to keep smoke alarms in and around the kitchen plugged in or stocked with batteries. Too often homeowners disconnect these units due to false alarms triggered by smoky foods. However, smoke alarms can save a life.

Springtime Is the Right Time to Redecorate

(MS) — This spring, why not give your room a whole new look ... from the bottom up? With so many beautiful and durable hard-surface flooring options to choose from, you can transform any room in your home from drab to delightful just by changing the floor.

In the kitchen, active families with little kids might consider vinyl flooring. Vinyl has long been a popular choice because of its soft, resilient nature and easy maintenance. Not at all like your grandmother's vinyl, today's patterns are warm and stylish, and Mannington creates a wide range of looks, from wood to slate, leather, and even handpainted floor cloths. Not only that, but vinyl floors are more durable than ever, and Mannington floors use exclusive surface coating technologies like ScratchResist™, which helps keep them looking new longer.

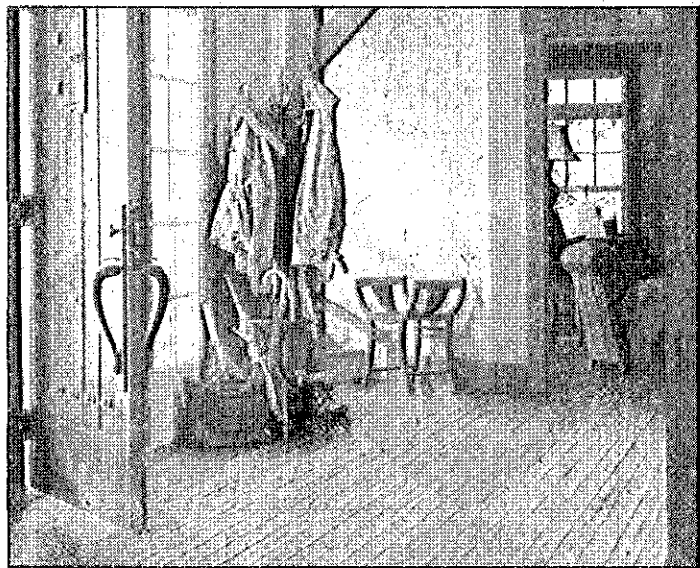

Family rooms are made for living, and anyone with teenagers will tell you that they can put a lot of wear and tear on a floor. For superior durability, a laminate floor will stand up to whatever your family brings in — kids, pets, and the dirt that follows them. Mannington offers a whole range of looks in laminate, including the Revolutions collection, which has the most realistic slate and wood laminates on the market today. Adirondack slate pattern has such realistic 3D texture and depth, you'll have to bend down and touch it to know it's not the real thing. And the wood looks, like Heritage Cherry, have beveled edges and textured planks, just like real wood.

In the foyer, dining room, or living room, nothing says elegance like a real hardwood floor. And today's pre-finished hardwood floors, like those from Mannington, will never need to be sanded and refinished, which really is the ultimate luxury. From exotic woods like bamboo and teak, to traditional oak and maple, there's something for everyone. Choose a gently distressed hickory for that lived-in look, dramatic Nottingham Maple for an elegant, rustic look, or sleek, contemporary Sapele. It's a dramatic way to change the look of any room.

For upscale custom layouts and a designer feel, look to porcelain tile. Porcelain is harder and stronger than regular ceramic, and can be used both indoors and out. Companies like Mannington make porcelain tile that is designed to coordinate from floor, to counter, to wall and backsplash, and some can make the transition from inside living to outdoor space. Porcelain is also easier to maintain than real marble or travertine. It won't chip or stain, and only requires sweeping and occasional mopping to keep clean.

So look down for a change, and put a spring in your step with a new floor. Call 1-800-182-9527 for product information, or visit www.mannington.com for a retailer near you.

Hardwood flooring, like this Nottingham Maple from Mannington, adds rustic beauty to any home.
